Vietnamese War Tension Seen Ebbing

U.S. Reports No Mass Movement Of Red Troops

WASHINGTON (AP) — High U.S. authorities said today chances of a major expansion of the Vietnamese war appear to be lessening.

They reported that there had been no sign, so far, of mass troop movements in Communist China or North Viet Nam. And they said there had been no evidence that Communist sea forces or planes were hunting targets.

South Viet Nam, focal point of the anti-Communist struggle in Southeast Asia, remained under virtual martial law, imposed Friday by Premier Nguyen Khanh.

Redeployment of beefed-up U.S. strength in the South Pacific continued. A squadron of supersonic jet fighters, newly arrived from the United States, stopped briefly in Hawaii, then headed for the Western Pacific and Southeast Asia.

While optimistic that the situation would continue to ease, U.S. officials did not rule out the possibility that it might take the communists a while to deploy their forces if they planned a major move.

The Communist Viet Cong forces have set an elaborate trap near the wreckage of a B57 jet bomber that crashed in South Viet Nam's aerial buildup, a U.S. military source said today.

Red guerrillas reportedly mined the road leading to the crash scene near Bien Hoa Airport, 35 miles northeast of Saigon. The source said reconnaissance flights showed that trees were felled to hide the evidence.

"It's a heavy trap, and we're not going to walk into it. We don't want to lose any more men," he added.

Government forces were expected to launch air strikes against the Viet Cong in clearing the way to the wreckage where two U.S. pilots are believed dead. They were identified as Capt. Fred C. Cutler, 29, Osyka, Miss., and Lt. Leonard I. Kaster, 25, Holyoke, Mass.

Monsoon rains swept the area today, topping flights of planes assigned to soften up the Communist guerrillas in the area of the downed B57.

Nationalists Say Reds Clamp Martial Law

TAIPEI (AP) — Communist China has clamped martial law over its mainland coast from Shanghai to Hainan Island and moved troops to coastal areas, the official Nationalist Chinese Central News Agency said today.

The agency said martial law was imposed after the United States bombed North Viet Nam Wednesday, and said about 20 per cent of the militiamen from communes in a southern province were moved to coastal areas for patrol duty.

The second half of the Junior Fair livestock sale was held last night with the record-breaking price trend continuing that was set Thursday night during the steer sale.

Buyers and feeders alike were pleased with results of the sale — including the finishing time. Activity was completed before 10 p. m., due to selling the steers the night before. In previous years the Friday night sale would last well into the morning hours.

REA Is Exempted From Federal Curb

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The executive manager of the Ohio Rural Electric Cooperative Association says he sees "no justification for the Federal Power Commission to regulate electric companies operating entirely within the borders of a single state."

Cummins made the statement Friday after he and other Cooperative leaders applauded the action of the FPC to exempt their members' co-ops from federal jurisdiction until 1966.

But the leaders continued their support of a proposal to prohibit the FPC from asserting jurisdiction over local transactions whether between co-ops or investor-owned companies.

Barry Plans To Attack If LBJ Eases Asia Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater has told Republican congressional candidates that foreign policy — and Viet Nam — will be the major campaign issue if President Johnson backs off from his Southeast Asia stand.

Newsmen were barred from Friday night's meeting in a hotel banquet room, but reporters outside the door heard the GOP's presidential nominee say of Johnson:

"If he doesn't continue what he has started to do, then I can assure him that not only Viet Nam but all of his foreign policy is going to be the major issue of the campaign."

Goldwater noted that some of his political foes have accused him of being "trigger happy." But the Arizona conservative, according to a Republican who heard the speech, said a decision to order naval air strikes against North Viet Nam's PT boat fleet would neutralize that charge.

"The Republican party has not led this country into a war this century. We are the party of peace," the senator was heard to say.

Republicans have always preserved the peace, he said, because they understand the use of power.

Newsmen were able to hear only part of Goldwater's remarks before the house detective ordered them away.

Earlier in the day, GOP National Chairman Dean Burch disclosed that pollsters were being used to sample public sentiment to help chart Goldwater's campaign.

Goldwater said he intends to launch his campaign formally with a speech at Prescott, Ariz., Sept. 4.

The vice presidential nominee, Rep. William E. Miller, kicks off his campaign the next day in his upstate New York congressional district.

Burch said Goldwater's national campaign will follow the format of his successful primary campaign in California: "big meetings, big television and pretty big issues."

After Goldwater's campaign opening in Arizona, Burch said, the senator may follow up with a foray into California.

"If you don't carry California," Burch said, "you have to carry three states you hadn't planned on."

JFK's Grandma Fitz Dies at Age of 98

BOSTON (AP) — Mrs. John F. Fitzgerald, grandmother of the late president John F. Kennedy, died today at the age of 98.

She died at the home of her son, Thomas, with whom she made her home in recent years. Mrs. Fitzgerald never was told of the assassination of her President grandson, but her son Thomas said "I had a hunch she knew — but we never talked about it."

Rhodes Honors Tobacco

RIPLEY, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes unveiled a plaque Friday to mark the 100th anniversary of the white burley tobacco industry in Ohio. The discovery was made in 1864 on Capt. Frederick Kautz's farm near Ripley.

Communist Viet Cong had been making distressingly good progress in its guerrilla war in South Viet Nam. Why this strange adventure on the seas? A possible reason was to test U.S. determination in its avowed goal of keeping South Viet Nam free. If that were the case, the U.S. action left little doubt of its intent.

Another surprise was what State Department officials considered the mild reaction of the Soviet Union, now at ideological odds with Communist China. Red China's reaction was not so mild: Peking said the United States had gone "over the brink of war."

The U.S. government — this time the FBI — was involved in another dramatic move last week.

Early Tuesday morning, a bulldozer which had been rented in Jackson, Miss., six days earlier began clearing a rough path through the scraggly underbrush on the old John Townsend place a few hundred yards west of State Highway 21 five miles southwest of Philadelphia, Miss.

At noon a crane rumbled up the road, lumbered into a pasture between two hills to the center of a 25-foot-high earthen levee being built to collect water for a stock tank, and began digging with its huge bucket at a precise spot at the base of the dam.

Twenty feet down three bodies were discovered, placed in black plastic bags marked X1, X2 and X3, and sent in an ambulance to the University of Mississippi Medical Center where pathologists and FBI identification experts were waiting.

Hog sales totalled $12,484.38 last night in the show barn for 292 head. The average price was $20.77 with an average price per head at $42.75. Armour and Co. purchased 167 of the hogs; Union Stockyards of Washington C. H. bought 30; Bowling Stockyards bought 27; and the Citizens Bank of Ashville bought 19. There were several other multiple purchases of two and three hogs.

Forty - three head of sheep sold for an average of $32.01. Total sales of the sheep auction was $2,384.60. The average price per head of the 103 sheep that were sold was $23.38. Teegardin Livestock purchased 51 of the sheep sold; Scioto Grain bought 18; and Atlanta Grain bought 17.

Speaking of auctions, Colonel Jim Ford had a few extra tickets on the bikes that the Fair Board gave away Wednesday. Ford, a local auctioneer, picked youngsters at random from the crowd and had them auction the tickets off. High price on some of the tickets was $10.00.

The racetrack and midways at the fairgrounds are not the only dry spots around. A beautiful garden exhibit in the coliseum, complete with a boy-on-a dolphin fountain, has to be watered daily. Jack Goode, of J.S. Goode Nursery, said about two gallons of water evaporates daily from the ever-flowing fountain.

Appalachia Plan OK'd by Senate Group

WASHINGTON (AP)—By a 12-2 vote, the Senate Public Works Committee reported favorably Friday one of resident Lyndon B. Johnson's "must" poverty programs: A billion dollar plus reshaping of the Appalachian region.

The committee substituted the already House passed version of the Appalachian Regional Development Act for the one it had considered.

The bill provides $840 million in federal funds for a development road system of 2,350 miles in West Virginia and parts of 10 other states, along with 500 miles of local access roads. This money is to be matched by states on an envisioned 70 - 30 basis over a five-year period.

The remaining $237,000,000 of the $1,077,000,000 program is to go for a variety of "new hope" plans for the 165,000 square mile area in which 15.3 million people dwell.

These include health improvements such as hospitals and clinics; restoration of mine areas, sewage treatment facilities, funds for expanded vocational education, and additional money under numerous existing federal programs.

The search that followed involved local officials, 400 sailors, the FBI, civilian volunteers, and brought to the scene former CIA Director Allen W. Dulles and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

By week's end the FBI hadn't divulged its source of information on the location of the graves, but would not deny persistent rumors that a reward of from $25,000 to $30,000 had been offered, and someone talked.

FBI activity wasn't confined to Mississippi last week. In Georgia, federal agents arrested four men identified as Ku Klux Klansmen in the shotgun slaying July 11 of a Negro educator, Lemuel A. Penn of Washington, D.C. He was killed while returning in his car from Army Reserve training at Ft. Benning.

But violence remained centered in the North last week. There were three nights of rioting in Jersey City, N.J. — the same pattern experienced earlier in Harlem and Rochester.

There also was good news in last week's headlines. The unemployment rate dropped below 5 per cent for the first time in more than four years; nine miners were hauled safely from the collapsed chambers of a limestone mine in Champagne, France; the last of three Texas Tower radar stations was destroyed with a splash and a roar drowned out only by the cheers of every man who ever served aboard the shaky things; the moon pictures turned out so good scientists can pick out items smaller than a breadbox — and a California court ruled that a man whose credit card was stolen wasn't responsible for the $1622.99 tab the thief rolled up.

From dental charts, fingerprints and other evidence the FBI confirmed what it apparently had known all the time: the bodies were those of three young men who had been missing and presumed dead for six weeks.

Michael H. Schwerner, Andrew Goodman and James E. Chaney, the latter a Negro, were among the first contingent of 450 students and others engaged in a summer voter-registration campaign among Mississippi Negroes. Schwerner, 24, and Goodman, 20 were from New York; Chaney was from Meridian, Miss.

The three had been arrested for speeding June 21, jailed, then released at 10:30 p.m. after Chaney posted $20 bond. Two days later their blue station wagon was found burned in the Bogue Chitto swamp 10 miles north of Philadelphia.

Antipoverty Bill Vote Due Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House pushed President Johnson's antipoverty bill to the verge of passage Friday night but was forced by a technicality to delay a final vote until today.

After a 228-190 preliminary vote all but sealed a stunning victory for Johnson, opponents demanded a printed copy of the bill, including amendments adopted only minutes earlier.

Such a demand can always be made, but rarely is. Sometimes the houses recesses until a copy can be provided. This time it decided to wait until today.

The House almost never meets on Saturday and members are accustomed to long weekends off.

The Democrats were short of members at one point Friday and opponents of the high priority administration bill almost succeeded in a bold maneuver to kill it.

Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., offered a motion to "strike the enacting clause" — in effect, kill the bill. Republicans, who had been waiting outside the chamber, rushed in and combined with Southern Democrats, succeeded in carrying the Smith motion by a 170-135 non-record vote.

The leadership was able to demand a roll call vote to ratify the action, however, and during the time that took, enough Democrats who support the President were rounded up to defeat the motion 225 to 198.

Ohio's six Democratic congressmen voted against striking out the enacting clause and for approval of the provisions, while the 18 Republican Buckeye representatives voted for striking out the clause and against approval of the provisions.

The 228-190 vote that followed came on the actual bill, but under House rules it was being considered in the form of an amendment adopted to the original House measure. After its approval as an amendment it must be passed as a bill, and that is the vote that was put off until today.

Except for one amendment put in over the opposition of the

Patrol Ordered Step Up Arrests

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Col. Anson B. Cook, Ohio Highway Patrol superintendent, alarmed over the continuing rise in traffic accidents, restated today his order to highway patrolmen to step up enforcement of traffic laws.

Cook said he was concerned about the accident Thursday night in Fayette County which took eight lives. He pointed out that two resident patrolmen are being assigned to Fayette County and will assume their posts Aug. 17.

Cook said arrests are up more than 36 per cent. He said more than 5,000 traffic violators in July this year than they did in July of 1963.

Committee members heard testimony Friday from a variety of interested persons, including Paul G. Blazer, chairman of the executive committee of Ashland (Ky.) Oil & Refining Co.

Blazer urged them not to over-regulate the industry.

Kirk Jordan, executive vice president of the Ohio Oil and Gas Association, Newark, said existing regulations while generally satisfactory, would be gone over to make sure they are firmly rooted in law. And, he said, it might be well to have an advisory board from the industry to assist any regulatory agency.

Officials from Celina, including mayor Robert L. Hecht, appeared to urge that no offshore drilling be permitted in the Grand Lake St. Marys area.

ACCIDENTS in the city so far this year show a marked increase over the number for the same period last year. . . .

A report by Chief Robert Temple shows the first seven months of this year resulted in 37 more accidents than the similar period in 1963. . . . The count in 1963 was 181. . . . It was 218 at the end of last month.

IN CONJUNCTION with traffic problems here, Chief Temple has noticed an improvement in bicycle safety the past day or two. . . . He attributed much of the credit to parents.

Greeks Claim Village Strafed

Italian Cargo Ship In Harbor Said Hit

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Turkish air force jets roared over Cyprus today in a second show of support for the embattled Turkish Cypriot minority, a Turkish Cypriot spokesman announced.

None of the planes apparently opened their guns as they swooped over the island's northwestern coast, scene of bitter fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots for the past three days. However, a Turkish Cypriot spokesman said the aircraft had been ordered to "intervene when necessary."

The Cyprus dispute veered into another crisis stage Friday after Turkish jet fighters swept over Polis, a small port in northwest Cyprus.

The Greek Cypriot government said the jets had strafed the village, hitting an Italian cargo ship in the harbor. It said it would bring a charge of aggression against Turkey before the U.N. Security Council and ordered the 30,000 - man Greek Cypriot national guard on a standby alert.

Turkey had emphatically denied that its planes had done any shooting Friday, but it promised they would be back today on a reconnaissance. If U.N. peacemaking efforts don't show any results, the Turkish government statement warned, Turkey might bomb the island to aid the Turkish Cypriot cause.

In Athens, Greek military leaders went into an emergency conference to consider the military implications of the new crisis.

Greek Defense Minister Peter Garofalakis warned that the "unjustified aerial attack" had created "a highly dangerous situation which might lead to war."

The Greek Cypriots said four American-made Supersabre jets had strafed Polis Harbor, hitting a ship.

Car Trouble Multiplies

NAPOLEON, Mich. (AP) — Gary Ellis, 19, says it just wasn't his day.

He was driving his sister's 1956 model car when the auto frame broke. He tied it together with a rope.

Then the rear end of the car shifted sideways and the drive shaft fell out of its housing, but the rope-together frame held.

A neighbor in another car, began pulling Gary's auto. Gary's right rear tire went flat. The spare was flat, too, so the trip continued. The flat tire came off the wheel.

The wheel threw sparks from the highway that set five grass fires. The Napoleon Fire Department extinguished the blazes.

Gary, who finally made it home, said "I think we'll keep the car and just stare at it — like a relic."

World's News This Week Topped by Viet Nam Crisis

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When Americans finally got the full story last Monday morning it appeared to be an isolated incident.

Three North Vietnamese torpedo boats had attacked an American destroyer in the Gulf of Tonkin; the destroyer, with the help of four fighter planes from a nearby carrier, had sent them limping away; and President Johnson had instructed 7th Fleet commanders that if anything of the sort ever happened again, shoot to kill. He also sent a note of protest to the Communist government in Hanoi.

The incident, however, turned out to be a prelude.

For under cover of darkness and in a rough sea a second group of Red PT boats attacked the same destroyer, the Maddox, and another which had subsequently joined it in its gulf patrol, the Turner Joy.

In three hours the attackers were sunk or driven off. Then, on orders from Washington, Constellation and Ticonderoga swooped beneath the low overcast along 100 miles of North Vietnamese coastline, bombed and strafed 25 torpedo boats in their coastal nests, blasted seven anti-aircraft batteries near an oil storage depot, and left the depot with its 14 tanks in a near total ruin.

After the second torpedo boat attack President Johnson summoned 16 congressional leaders from both parties and after a 90-minute meeting announced that he would go on television with a message to the American people. Meanwhile, he had contacted Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, vacationing at Newport Beach, Calif., and received his endorsement, as Republican presidential nominee, for what he planned to do.

At 11:30 p.m. Tuesday he entered the Fish Room of the White House where television cameras had been set up. He had waited until that hour presumably to receive confirmation that the U.S. counterstrike was in progress. Then, in solemn and deliberate tones, he outlined what had happened — describing the attacks on the U.S. destroyers as "open aggression on the high seas" — and told his countrymen he had ordered the retaliatory strike which was limited and, he said, fitting.

Friday, resolutions by both houses of Congress overwhelmingly gave the President a vote of confidence in the Viet Nam-Southeast Asia crisis.

At week's end American strategists still were wondering why it all had happened. The Communist Viet Cong had been making distressingly good progress in its guerrilla war in South Viet Nam. Why this strange adventure on the seas? A possible reason was to test U.S. determination in its avowed goal of keeping South Viet Nam free. If that were the case, the U.S. action left little doubt of its intent.

Hog sales totalled $12,484.38 last night in the show barn for 292 head. The average price was $20.77 with an average price per head at $42.75. Armour and Co. purchased 167 of the hogs; Union Stockyards of Washington C. H. bought 30; Bowling Stockyards bought 27; and the Citizens Bank of Ashville bought 19. There were several other multiple purchases of two and three hogs.

Forty - three head of sheep sold for an average of $32.01. Total sales of the sheep auction was $2,384.60. The average price per head of the 103 sheep that were sold was $23.38. Teegardin Livestock purchased 51 of the sheep sold; Scioto Grain bought 18; and Atlanta Grain bought 17.

Speaking of auctions, Colonel Jim Ford had a few extra tickets on the bikes that the Fair Board gave away Wednesday. Ford, a local auctioneer, picked youngsters at random from the crowd and had them auction the tickets off. High price on some of the tickets was $10,000.

The racetrack and midways at the fairgrounds are not the only dry spots around. A beautiful garden exhibit in the coliseum, complete with a boy-on-a-dolphin fountain, has to be watered daily. Jack Goode, of J.S. Goode Nursery, said about two gallons of water evaporates daily from the ever-flowing fountain.

Appalachia Plan OK'd by Senate Group

WASHINGTON (AP)—By a 12-2 vote, the Senate Public Works Committee reported favorably Friday one of resident Lyndon B. Johnson's "must" poverty programs: A billion dollar plus reshaping of the Appalachian region.

The committee substituted the already House passed version of the Appalachian Regional Development Act for the one it had considered.

The bill provides $840 million in federal funds for a development road system of 2,350 miles in West Virginia and parts of 10 other states, along with 500 miles of local access roads. This money is to be matched by states on an envisioned 70 - 30 basis over a five-year period.

The remaining $237,200,000 of the $1,077,200,000 program is to go for a variety of "new hope" plans for the 165,000 square mile area in which 15.3 million people dwell.

These include health improvements such as hospitals and clinics; restoration of nine areas, ewage treatment facilities, funds for expanded vocational education, and additional money under numerous existing federal programs.

Michael H. Schwerner, Andrew Goodman and James E. Chaney, the latter a Negro, were among the first contingent of 450 students and others engaged in a summer voter-registration campaign among Mississippi Negroes. Schwerner, 24, and Goodman, 20 were from New York; Chaney was from Meridian, Miss.

The three had been arrested for speeding June 21, jailed, then released at 10:30 p.m. after Chaney posted $20 bond. Two days later their blue station wagon was found burned in the Bogie Chitto swamp 10 miles north of Philadelphia.

Antipoverty Bill Vote Due Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House pushed President Johnson's antipoverty bill to the verge of passage Friday night but was forced by a technicality to delay a final vote until today.

After a 228-190 preliminary vote all but sealed a stunning victory for Johnson, opponents demanded a printed copy of the bill, including amendments adopted only minutes earlier.

Such a demand can always be made, but rarely is. Sometimes the houses recesses until a copy can be provided. This time it decided to wait until today.

The House almost never meets on Saturday and members are accustomed to long weekends off.

The Democrats were short of members at one point Friday and opponents of the high priority administration bill almost succeeded in a bold maneuver to kill it.

Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., offered a motion to "strike the enacting clause" — in effect, kill the bill. Republicans, who had been waiting outside the chamber, rushed in and combined with Southern Democrats, succeeded in carrying the Smith motion by a 170-135 non-record vote.

The leadership was able to demand a roll call vote to ratify the action, however, and during the time that took, enough Democrats who support the President were rounded up to defeat the motion 225 to 198.

Ohio's six Democratic congressmen voted against striking out the enacting clause and for approval of the provisions, while the 18 Republican Buckeye representatives voted for striking out the clause and against approval of the provisions.

The 228-190 vote that followed came on the actual bill, but under House rules it was being considered in the form of an amendment adopted to the original House measure. After its approval as an amendment it must be passed as a bill, and that is the vote that was put off until today.

Except for one amendment put in over the opposition of the

Patrol Ordered Step Up Arrests

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Col. Anson B. Cook, Ohio Highway Patrol superintendent, alarmed over the continuing rise in traffic accidents, restated today his order to highway patrolmen to step up enforcement of traffic laws.

Cook said he was concerned about the accident Thursday night in Fayette County which took eight lives. He pointed out that two resident patrolmen are being assigned to Fayette County and will assume their posts Aug. 17.

Col. Cook said arrests are up more than 36 per cent. He said more than 5,000 traffic violators in July this year than they did in July of 1963.

Committee members heard testimony Friday from a variety of interested persons, including Paul G. Blazer, chairman of the executive committee of Ashland (Ky.) Oil & Refining Co.

Blazer urged them not to over-regulate the industry. Kirk Jordan, executive vice president of the Ohio Oil and Gas Association, Newark, said existing regulations while generally satisfactory, would be gone over to make sure they are firmly rooted in law. And, he said, it might be well to have an advisory board from the industry to assist any regulatory agency.

Officials from Celina, including mayor Robert L. Hecht, appeared to urge that no offshore drilling be permitted in the Grand Lake St. Marys area.

bill's supporters, the version awaiting final passage is closely parallel to the Senate version. The exception is an amendment that would require a loyalty oath from all those participating in the various programs authorized by the bill. It was proposed by Rep. John Bell Williams, D-Miss., and approved by a nonrecord vote of 144-112.

ACCIDENTS in the city so far this year show a marked increase over the number for the same period last year. . . . A report by Chief Robert Temple shows the first seven months of this year resulted in 37 more accidents than the similar period in 1963. . . . The count in 1963 was 181. . . . It was 218 at the end of last month.

IN CONJUNCTION with traffic problems here, Chief Temple has noticed an improvement in bicycle safety the past day or two. . . . He attributed much of the credit to parents.

Italian Cargo Ship In Harbor Said Hit

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Turkish air force jets roared over Cyprus today in a second show of support for the embattled Turkish Cypriot minority, a Turkish Cypriot spokesman announced.

None of the planes apparently opened their guns as they swooped over the island's northwestern coast, scene of bitter fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots for the past three days. However, a Turkish Cypriot spokesman said the aircraft had been ordered to "intervene when necessary."

The Cyprus dispute veered into another crisis stage Friday after Turkish jet fighters swept over Polis, a small port in northwest Cyprus.

The Greek Cypriot government said the jets had strafed the village, hitting an Italian cargo ship in the harbor. It said it would bring a charge of aggression against Turkey before the U.N. Security Council and ordered the 30,000 - man Greek Cypriot national guard on a standby alert.

Turkey had emphatically denied that its planes had done any shooting Friday, but it promised they would be back today on a reconnaissance. If U.N. peacemaking efforts don't show any results, the Turkish government statement warned, Turkey might bomb the island to aid the Turkish Cypriot cause.

Oil Drilling Rule Panel To Parley Again

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A state lawmakers' committee considering oil and gas drilling regulations will meet again Aug. 28 to discuss possible agencies for enforcing them.

The committee, one of the busiest of those making studies during this off-legislative period, will be gathering for the eighth time, Rep. Harry L. Armstrong, R-Hocking, is chairman.

Committee members heard testimony Friday from a variety of interested persons, including Paul G. Blazer, chairman of the executive committee of Ashland (Ky.) Oil & Refining Co.

Blazer urged them not to over-regulate the industry. Kirk Jordan, executive vice president of the Ohio Oil and Gas Association, Newark, said existing regulations while generally satisfactory, would be gone over to make sure they are firmly rooted in law. World's News This Week Topped by Viet Nam Crisis

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
When Americans finally got the full story last Monday morning it appeared to be an isolated incident.

Three North Vietnamese torpedo boats had attacked an American destroyer in the Gulf of Tonkin; the destroyer, with the help of four fighter planes from a nearby carrier, had sent them limping away; and President Johnson had instructed 7th Fleet commanders that if anything of the sort ever happened again, shoot to kill. He also sent a note of protest to the Communist government in Hanoi.

The incident, however, turned out to be a prelude. For under cover of darkness and in a rough sea a second group of Red PT boats attacked the same destroyer, the Maddox, and another which had subsequently joined it in its gulf parol, the Turner Joy. In three hours the attackers were sunk or driven off. Then, on orders from Washington, Constellation and Ticonderoga swooped beneath the low over-cast along 100 miles of North Vietnamese coastline, bombed and strafed 25 torpedo boats in their coastal nests, blasted seven anti-aircraft batteries near an oil storage depot, and left the depot with its 14 tanks in near total ruin.

After the second torpedo boat attack President Johnson summoned 16 congressional leaders from both parties and after a 90-minute meeting announced that he would go on television with a message to the American people. Meanwhile, he had contacted Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, vacationing at Newport Beach, Calif., and received his endorsement, as Republican presidential nominee, for what he planned to do.

At 11:30 p.m. Tuesday he entered the Fish Room of the White House where television cameras had been set up. He had waited until that hour presumably to receive confirmation that the U.S. counterstrike was in progress. Then, in solemn and deliberate tones, he outlined what had happened — describing the attacks on the U.S. destroyers as "open aggression on the high seas" — and told his countrymen he had ordered the retaliatory strike which was limited and, he said, fitting.

Friday, resolutions by both houses of Congress overwhelmingly gave the President a vote of confidence in the Viet Nam-Southeast Asia crisis.

At week's end American strategists still were wondering why it all had happened. The Communist Viet Cong had been making distressingly good progress in its guerrilla war in South Viet Nam. Why this strange adventure on the seas? A possible reason was to test U.S. determination in its avowed goal of keeping South Viet Nam free. If that were the case, the U.S. action left little doubt of its intent.

Another surprise was what State Department officials considered the mild reaction of the Soviet Union, now at ideological odds with Communist China. Red China's reaction was not so mild: Peking said the United States had gone "over the brink of war."

The U.S. government — this time the FBI — was involved in another dramatic move last week. Early Tuesday morning, a bulldozer which had been rented in Jackson, Miss., six days earlier began clearing a rough path through the scraggly underbrush on the old John Townsend place a few hundred yards west of State Highway 21 five miles southwest of Philadelphia, Miss.

At noon a crane rumbled up the road, lumbered into a pasture between two hills to the center of a 25-foot-high earthen levee being built to collect water for a stock tank, and began digging with its huge bucket at a precise spot at the base of the dam.

Twenty feet down three bodies were discovered, placed in black plastic bags marked X1, X2 and X3, and sent in an ambulance to the University of Mississippi Medical Center where pathologists and FBI identification experts were waiting.

From dental charts, fingerprints and other evidence the FBI confirmed what it apparently had known all the time: the bodies were those of three young men who had been missing and presumed dead for six weeks.

Michael H. Schwerner, Andrew Goodman and James E. Chaney, the latter a Negro, were among the first contingent of 450 students and others engaged in a summer voter-registration campaign among Mississippi Negroes. Schwerner, 24, and Goodman, 20 were from New York; Chaney was from Meridian, Miss.

THE WINNER — It's only once in a blue moon that a mass arrangement wins the "Best-of-Show" award. But it happened Thursday when Mrs. Henry Young, Bexley judge, gave the top honor to Mrs. Joe McCoy's mass arrangement entered in the "Sunset in Summer" class. Mrs. McCoy is pictured with the winning arrangement. She is without peer when it comes to growing flowers. The exhibit was noteworthy not only for its design and color but also for the excellence of the horticultural material used in it.

Mrs. McCoy Top Winner With Her Mass Arrangement

By MRS. ELIZABETH JONES

The last of the three flower shows scheduled by the Pickaway County Fair Flower Show Committee was held Thursday. Mrs. Joe McCoy, Route 1, Orient won "Best-of-Show" on a mass arrangement entered in the "Sunset in Summer" class.

Sweepstakes went to Mrs. Kenneth Garrison in the horticultural division for the greatest number of points in the specimen division, to Mrs. Turney Pontius in the houseplant section and to Mrs. Donald Watt in the artistic division.

Mrs. McCoy's "Best-of-Show" arrangement was a mass design in true sunset colors. Plant material included roses, zinnias, snapdragons, cannas, coleus, gladiolus, marigolds and yew. Her container was a shining brass compote.

According to flower show chairman, Mrs. Harry Kern, nearly 300 entries were displayed in the combined adult and junior events. This surpasses the number of entries in last year's flower shows.

MRS. HENRY YOUNG, Bexley, judged the exhibit Thursday.

Ohio Real Estate, Utility Tax Take Up by 6.9 Pct.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohioans paid $795,348,028 in real estate and public utility property taxes in the 1963 calendar year—an increase of $51,440,527 or 6.9 per cent above 1962, state Auditor Roger W. Tracy reported today.

The auditor said his figures were based upon a compilation of reports filed by the 88 county auditors.

An analysis of the reports, he said, shows that the eight large urban counties had total collections of $492,111,332 or 64.8 per cent of the statewide collections. Cuyahoga County led the way with $185,566,001. The other metropolitan county figures were: Franklin $49,862,116; Hamilton $85,451,357; Lucas $34,370,766; Mahoning $21,996,389; Montgomery $35,759,451; Stark $22,431,988 and Summit, $48,763,261.

4-H Rodeo Is Popular

Extremely popular with the members of the Roughriders 4-H Club, the 4-H Rodeo capped the western horse show Thursday.

Darwin Hay, advisor of the club, innovated the 4-H Rodeo last year. It finds young girls, as well as boys competing in such rough and tumble sports as calf tie and pick-up race.

Winners of the rodeo events included Kay Hay, daughter of the club advisor, who won the barrel race and the stake race; Gary Patrick, pick up race and flag race; Dave Smith, steer riding and calf tie.

Winners in the Western 4-H classes were: Edith Allison, junior showmanship; Patrick, senior showmanship; and senior stock horse; Tom Skinner, junior pleasure horse.

Men in Kayak Seen on Highway

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — The situation looked incongruous, but the explanation was simple.

An Ohio Highway Patrol officer driving along U. S. 40 in Belmont county Thursday night saw a man in a kayak in the middle of the highway.

The "landed" passenger, George Bethel of Morristown, explained he was riding in a pick-up truck, sitting in the boat. The truck apparently jostled and the kayak fell out. Bethel received head cuts.

Outpouring of Affection Is Awaiting Herbert Hoover, near 90th Birthday

NEW YORK (AP)—In his 90th year the old Federalist, John Adams, observed that his health was not what it once was but that he still could "walk three miles over a rugged rocky mountain."

On the eve of his 90th birthday Herbert Hoover, the grand old man of the Grand Old Party, would enjoy nothing better.

But there will be no mountain hikes for Herbert Hoover. For several years now he has tramped his beloved fields and fishing streams only in his memory of younger days. But when he celebrates his birthday Monday and joins Adams as the only nonagenarians among former presidents, he will experience once again something denied him in the vigor of his life: A warm and sincere outpouring of affection by his countrymen. To Herbert Clark Hoover, a man his country and even his party once discarded, this must be a joy unmatched even by the exquisite sight of a Mayfly dancing on a trout stream.

He will receive the formal felicitations of the Congress and the President and the flags flown over the Capitol and the White House on that day especially in his honor.

But the light has grown dim in his steel gray eyes. His collar fits loosely around the once thick neck and his health is considerably feeble than that of the robust Adams. He hasn't been out of his Waldorf Towers suite since May 22 a year ago when he got dressed and went downstairs against his doctor's orders to pay honor to the astronaut Gordon Cooper. The exertion was more than he could take and he went right to bed. A few weeks later he fell seriously ill from anemia and internal bleeding.

Hoover now spends his days working a little, but the major work he set out to do when he left the White House, work that as recently as last year matched his own incredible energy with that of eight secretaries and a research staff, is virtually finished. Now he has only two secretaries and seldom sits at his desk.

There is nothing in the imposing suite to remind him of the bitter years.

Many Americans today were unborn, or were babies, during the anguished days of the Great Depression and knew only by hearsay that shanty towns once were called Hoovervilles, newspapers spread over park bench tenants were Hoover blankets and signs carried by bonus marchers said "In Hoover we trusted, now we're busted."

Those who now look at Hoover's life and accomplishments can view them without emotional distraction. They are able to see him not as the architect of the depression, to use the 1932 phrase, but as the engineer of programs that saved more than a billion persons from famine after two great wars, as the head of massive studies that resulted in streamlining government organization, as the dedicated public servant who never has accepted a cent for his services, and as the voluntary head of a dozen educational, charitable and scientific organizations from the Boys Clubs to the World Rehabilitation Fund.

It is one of the ironies of Hoover's life that political partisanship should bring him such grief, because he himself never had a taste for it.

He had held public office in two administrations, Republican and Democratic, and before he ran for the presidency — the only office he ever sought, and that reluctantly — nobody was quite sure what party he belonged to.

He had supported Teddy Roosevelt's Republican bolt in 1912, and during the 1918 congressional campaign urged election of men who would support Woodrow Wilson. When Hoover's name was entered without his permission in the Michigan Democratic primary he drew the largest vote. Franklin D. Roosevelt has been quoted in a letter to Josephus Daniels as saying that "Herbert Hoover is certainly a wonder, and I wish we could make him President of the United States. There could not be a better one."

Hoover never bothered to answer the personal abuse leveled against him. "No man can catch up with a lie," he reasoned. "If the American people wish to believe such things about me, it cannot be helped."

Instead he has contented himself with retirement to what he calls his "comfortable monastery" in the Waldorf and busies himself with writing his memoirs, his well received "The Ordeal of Woodrow Wilson," his massive four-volume account of his relief work, and a historical work yet to be published that traces events which have followed U.S. recognition of Communist Russia.

Hoover regards his pipe as a barometer of his health. Two years ago, when surgeons removed a malignant tumor, he sat up in bed a few days after the operation and asked apprehensively for his pipe. The nurse asked the doctor and the doctor said all right. Hoover fired it up and announced with satisfaction through a billow of smoke, "We're back in business."

Hoover has little patience with those who take themselves too seriously. His favorite testimonial is one from a Boys Club that says simply: "Herbert Hoover is a good egg." Recently he got a chuckle when a sixth grade class in Enid, Okla., named a pet ground squirrel Mr. Hoover, then discovered it was a girl. One of his favorite stories is about a youngster years ago who asked him for three autographs, explaining it took two Hoovers to get one Babe Ruth.

Hoover writes everything, from ponderous books to letters to children, in longhand with a pencil. Typewriters, dictating machines, even ball point pens, he says, are "stimulants to verbosity."

Seven years ago when he went out to Independence, Mo., to help dedicate the library of one of his warmest friends, Harry Truman, a local matron flattered up and asked what ex-presidents do when they retire. "Madam," said Hoover, "we spend our time taking pills and dedicating libraries."

But the joke didn't apply to Hoover. He maintains stoutly that no one should retire from work or he "will shrivel up into a nuisance, talking to everybody about pains and pills and income tax." He has said, "when I'm not working, I get tired of myself."

Judging from the pace of his 90 years, there is little likelihood Herbert Hoover ever will get tired of himself.

Today is Saturday, Aug. 8, the 221st day of 1964. There are 145 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1829, the first steam locomotive in America, the "Stourbridge Lion," was put into service at Honesdale, Pa. Operating on a wooden-railed tramway at a coal mine. The locomotive, imported from England, was regarded as a failure and soon was dismantled.

In 1815, Napoleon Bonaparte sailed for the island of St. Helena where he died in exile. In 1846, the U.S. House approved the Wilmot Proviso, forbidding slavery in territory to be purchased from Mexico. In 1940, the German air force began its concentrated bombing of England.

Ten years ago — United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld appealed to member nations not ignore the U.N. at international conferences outside the U.N. framework. Five years ago — Floods were reported to have claimed 648 lives on Formosa. One year ago — A masked bandit gang held up a British mail train, escaping with more than $17 million.

Beatles on Market?

It seems impossible to escape the fact that like taxes, crime, the sunrise and sunset, the Beatles are here to stay.

There was a recent report that an Anglo-American syndicate has offered more than a million dollars for their contract. Another rumor is that shares in The Beatles Ltd. might soon be for sale on the English stock market.

Surely this will bring thousands of teenage investors, with their money in hand, rushing to the market to invest. Thus teenagers will be getting dividends on the money they originally invested in records, Beatle sweaters and such.

It seems almost the ultimate madness to imagine the hallowed halls of London's "City" ringing with cries as the price of shares in The Beatles Ltd. rises right off the board.

The World Today

By James Marlow

By BENNETT WOLFE

(For James Marlow)
WASHINGTON (AP) — After years of consideration and controversy, Congress is about to agree on something called the wilderness bill.

What's it all about?
It is a bill that would provide for preservation of a vast system of wilderness areas in as nearly their natural state as possible. Soothing of men's souls is one of the objectives.

The stated purpose is to keep for present and future generations areas of unspoiled, pristine wilderness, unmarred by roads, buildings, automobiles or motorboats.

Systems of trails would provide access for hikers, mountain climbers, hunters, fishermen and — as Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, once put it in Senate debate — for "all those who find, in high and lonely places, a refreshment of the spirit and life's closest communion with God."

Only minor differences remain to be smoothed out between bills passed by both Houses and Senate before Congress sends the Wilderness Act of 1964 to the White House for President Johnson's certain approval.

What lands would be included in the system? Initially, more than 9 million acres of National Forest lands, principally in Wyoming, Montana, California, Idaho, New Mexico, Washington, Oregon, Arizona, Colorado, Minnesota and Nevada. An additional 5 million acres, including some forest lands in North Carolina and New Hampshire, may be added later.

Since the Forest Service, an agency of the Agriculture Department, now has control of the areas, why is the legislation needed? Because, in the words of Rep. John P. Saylor, R-Pa., "such areas now enjoy only the protection of the secretary of agriculture, who at some future time could, by the stroke of the pen, remove all or part of such areas" from what protection they now enjoy.

What about commercial activities in the wilderness areas? Provision is made for commercial services necessary "for activities which are proper for realizing the recreational or other wilderness purposes." Who opposed the legislation? Such groups as livestock grazers and loggers. They feared

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

AN ELDERLY lady in Baltimore was a hopeless hypochondriac who called her doctor at all hours of the night to complain about imaginary aches and pains. The doctor finally had to tell her, "If you wake me up once more in the middle of the night with one of those cock-and-bull stories, Mrs. Hilliard, I'm going to have to ask you to transfer your business to another doctor."

Two weeks later, however, the poor lady fell down a flight of stairs, breaking a leg, four ribs, and suffering a concussion into the bargain. The doctor examined her from head to foot, shook his head approvingly, and said, "Well, Mrs. Hilliard! At last you're beginning to get the real hang of it!"

An enterprising merchant in Japan presents visiting Americans with copies of the local highway code, thoughtfully translated into English.
A typical paragraph: "On encountering pedestrians: when a passenger on the hoof hoves into sight, tootle the horn, trumpet to him melodiously at first. If he still obstacles your passage, tootle him with increasing vigor and express by work of mouth the warning: 'HI! HI! HI!'"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

The pain of coronary heart disease, referred to as angina pectoris, is being relieved by a new form of surgery.

Sixty-six patients have already undergone the operation during the past two years.

It is known that the pain (angina) is produced when the coronary arteries become narrowed or blocked and carry an inadequate amount of blood to the heart muscle itself.

It is known, too, that the symptom of pain can be relieved if more blood reaches the heart muscle.

In order to accomplish this, a new operation, called the "pedicle" operation, transplants an artery from the back of the breast bone to the heart. By this method, blood is brought to the heart, bypassing any obstruction in the coronary vessels.

Dr. William H. Sewell of the Veterans Administration Hospital at Oteen, N. C., modestly described the operation as a "simple" one.

Moving picture X-rays taken after the operation showed that large quantities of blood were reaching the heart muscle.

Patients who had been incapacitated and restricted in their activities showed considerable improvement. Many were again able to take part in daily activities — their jobs, and even bowling and golf — without pain in the chest.

The operation holds forth great promise as an additional technique for the total rehabilitation of the coronary patient.

What is coronary artery disease?

The heart muscle, like every other muscle in the body, has its own blood supply for nourishment and strength. The blood vessels to the heart are called the coronary arteries. The name is derived from "corona," like a crown.

Narrowing of the coronary arteries by arteriosclerosis reduces the amount of blood carried to the heart muscle. This condition can produce coronary heart disease.

GOP Stupidity in New York

By John Chamberlain

In their haste to hurt the little Conservative Party of New York State, which was formed to lend support to any Republican who measures up to conservative standards and to keep Republicanism to a minimum, the Republican State Committee of New York has set in motion a train of events that could claim as its chief victim no less a person than Senator Kenneth B. Keating, a good Republican liberal.

This irony stems from the action of Republican State Chairman Fred A. Young, who has rejected a Conservative Party request that a common set of electors be used by both Republicans and Conservatives for the Goldwater-Miller ticket next November. If the Young decision stands, the Conservative Party, which would certainly do nothing to jeopardize the chances of a Goldwater victory, would have to leave the top line of its ticket on the voting machine blank.

To an outsider, the Conservative Party claim that this might make it impossible for 140,000 to 200,000 voters to find their way to pulling a Goldwater lever is something of a mystery. But it could be true that some votes would be lost to Goldwater and Miller simply because ticket splitting always poses mechanical difficulties. In a close election this might be fatal.

Since the Conservative Party is actually far more of a Goldwater party than the New York Republican organization, which has been a Rockefeller grouping, there could be some measure of lingering Convention spite in State Chairman Young's refusal to accommodate the Conservative Party's request for common Goldwater electors. At least there are conservatives who interpret it this way. And, since spite breeds resentment, the Conservatives could take it out on Ken Keating, whom they do not particularly love anyway, by presenting their own candidate for the U. S. Senate in the Autumn sweepstakes. Clare Luce has been mentioned as a possible Conservative choice.

This business of diluting the Keating vote is something that Barry Goldwater himself would surely like to avoid. Keating has worried about running with Goldwater, but the feeling has not been reciprocated. Indeed, at the Madison Square Garden conservative Republican rally last Spring, Goldwater went out of his way to praise Ken Keating for signing a Republican congressional statement of position back in 1962 that had Barry's own endorsement. The crowd booed the name of Keating, but Goldwater did not retract.

For myself, I like Ken Keating for the same reason that I like Senator Tom Dodd, a Democrat, of Connecticut. They are both good men on foreign policy. And, since the future of the American Republic depends on foreign policy more than it does on anything else, one can forgive both Keating and Dodd for domestic lapses. Keating was especially sound on Cuba in the days prior to the missile crisis. When John F. Kennedy was still denying that the Russians were putting dangerous weapons into Cuba, and attacking Senator Capehart of Indiana for being a silly armchair strategist in his insistence that the menace of Fidel Castro ought to be a campaign issue, Ken Keating was busy documenting the truth about the Cuban missiles. He kept at it night and day, and when the Kennedy Administration was compelled to face Khrushchev in the eyeball-to-eyeball confrontation Ken Keating was vindicated. He is still calling for tough sanctions against Cuba.

He did another worthwhile thing last spring when he ripped into the State Department for permitting Sukarno to send Indonesians to this country for training in the sort of tactics that would be useful in guerrilla warfare against Malaysia, a new country that is friendly to the western anti-Communist cause.

This column didn't start out to be a valentine to Keating. It did start out to be a warning that the machine Republicans ought to accept Conservative Party help in putting Goldwater across. In accepting that help, they would probably be saving Ken Keating, too.

Goldwater might be asked to try to pound some sense into New York machine Republicans. But it is a ticklish business for an out-of-state leader to interfere in local matters. So let's hope that the New York Republican organization will come to its senses on its own.

Beatles on Market?

It seems impossible to escape the fact that like taxes, crime, the sunrise and sunset, the Beatles are here to stay.

There was a recent report that an Anglo-American syndicate has offered more than a million dollars for their contract. Another rumor is that shares in The Beatles Ltd. might soon be for sale on the English stock market.

Surely this will bring thousands of teenage investors, with their money in hand, rushing to the market to invest. Thus teenagers will be getting dividends on the money they originally invested in records, Beatle sweaters and such.

It seems almost the ultimate madness to imagine the hallowed halls of London's "City" ringing with cries as the price of shares in The Beatles Ltd. rises right off the board.

The World Today

By BENNETT WOLFE

(For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON (AP) — After years of consideration and controversy, Congress is about to agree on something called the wilderness bill.

What's it all about?

It is a bill that would provide for preservation of a vast system of wilderness areas in as nearly their natural state as possible. Soothing of men's souls is one of the objectives.

The stated purpose is to keep for present and future generations areas of unspoiled, pristine wilderness, unmarred by roads, buildings, automobiles or motorboats.

Systems of trails would provide access for hikers, mountain climbers, hunters, fishermen and — as Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, once put it in Senate debate — for "all those who find, in high and lonely places, a refreshment of the spirit and life's closest communion with God."

Only minor differences remain to be smoothed out between bills passed by both Houses and Senate before Congress sends the Wilderness Act of 1964 to the White House for President Johnson's certain approval.

What lands would be included in the system? Initially, more than 9 million acres of National Forest lands, principally in Wyoming, Montana, California, Idaho, New Mexico, Washington, Oregon, Arizona, Colorado, Minnesota and Nevada. An additional 5 million acres, including some forest lands in North Carolina and New Hampshire, may be added later.

Since the Forest Service, an agency of the Agriculture Department, now has control of the areas, why is the legislation needed? Because, in the words of Rep. John P. Saylor, R-Pa., "such areas now enjoy only the protection of the secretary of agriculture, who at some future time could, by the stroke of the pen, remove all or part of such areas" from what protection they now enjoy.

What about commercial activities in the wilderness areas? Provision is made for commercial services necessary "for activities which are proper for realizing the recreational or other wilderness purposes." Who opposed the legislation? Such groups as livestock grazers and loggers. They feared

What of their rights under the Wilderness Act? Provision is made for such activities under controls designed to keep them compatible with preservation of the wilderness character.

What about the cost? The legislation does not call for any money. It would simply give statutory protection to existing wilderness areas, establishing a national policy to be carried out by existing agencies. Congress would have the power, however, to vote future appropriations for acquisition of privately owned lands within the boundaries of any wilderness area.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television producers who scurry to make deadlines could take a lesson from Walt Disney. He's three-fifths finished with his programs for the coming season, which doesn't start until Sept. 20.

The 1964-65 season is a special one for Disney — his 10th. His shows, first on ABC and now in color on NBC, have always reflected taste, quality and variety. The selection next year will continue to be varied, with accent on original, multichapter films.

"Of the 25 shows, we'll have about five nature films, two feature movies, two cartoon shows and the rest three and four-part story films," said Walt. "There's a reason for doing films in three or more parts. We put more time and bigger budgets into our shows than most television producers do."

"We believe in getting more action and bigger backgrounds for our stories, not just shoot them against a wall. We can justify the expense when we use sets for three or four shows. For instance, I had a whole Philadelphia street in the '90s built for 'Gallagher,' a story about a newspaper copy boy written by Richard Harding Davis."

Walt doesn't like to be pressed by deadlines. Hence 15 of the year's product of 24 hours is filmed.

"And we've got nature photographers out in the field shooting subjects for 1965 and 1966," he added.

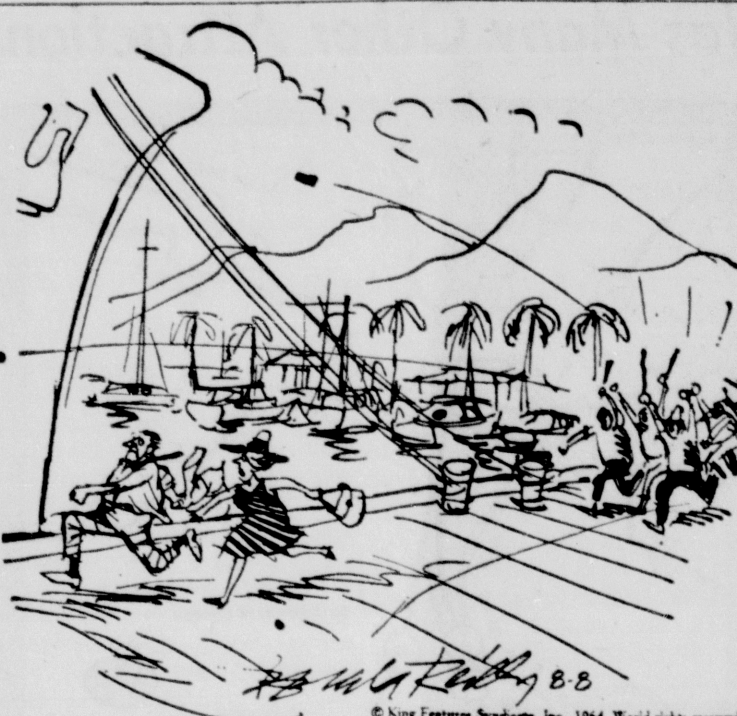

As host of the series, Walt must spend some of his time as an actor. "There's some ham in all of us," he admitted. "I can shoot about five introductions in a day, and I find the work fun. It gives me a chance to get away from everything else for a day."

He tries to work animals into his act, and the results are often unexpected. For the lead-in to the show of "Nicki, Wild Dog of the North," he put a bunch of baby dogs, cats, guinea pigs, possums and skunks in a cage to show young animal don't harm each other as long as they're not hungry. Someone suggested adding chicks and ducklings, and this was done.

Walt was in the middle of a take when he looked down to a kitten with a chick in its mouth and a puppy trying to make off with a duckling. He rescued the victims just in time.

Local Baha'i Group Lists Weekly Thought

The following is from Baha'i teachings: "In his letters to the peoples of all faiths, Baha'u'llah proclaims the fulfillment of the promises of each of their Holy Books. He addresses all men as the sheep of God, who have hitherto been divided into different flocks and sheltered in different folds.

"His message, he says, is the voice of God, the good Shepherd, who has come in the fullness of time to gather his scattered sheep into one flock, removing the barriers between them, that there may be one fold and one Shepherd.

"In this day of divisions and rivalries, Baha'u'llah declares that basic oneness of the religion of all mankind."

Cleric OKs Congregation In Boats, Play Clothes

MONTICELLO, Ky. (AP) — The Rev. Delmar Rodgers sometimes finds his congregation in play clothes.

But, it's only natural because many of the worshippers come by boat.

Once a month, the young minister of the Monticello Christian church conducts a 30-minute Sunday evening service at nearby Lake Cumberland.

The Rev. Mr. Rodgers describes his waterside service as an effort to unite pleasure and Christianity. His pulpit generally is the deck of a boat.

"A lot of people in our congregation have boats. Rather than let the boats become a wedge between them and their faithfulness to the church, we have the service at the lake," the minister said.

"Let's say its accommodation. Those with boats feel they're putting them to good use."

The service is sponsored by the young people of the church. It began last summer and attendance has averaged about 100 persons.

Dress is informal though the minister explains "We ask for some measure of dignity. The people definitely are on vacation. Some stay on their boats during the services."

There are boats of all descriptions, usually including five or six houseboats.

Rodgers has been in this south-central Kentucky town of 3,000 population for about one and one-half years. He came from Rockford, Ill. Previous pastorates were in large cities, including Chicago.

His lakeside services are limited to 30 minutes of music and a brief sermon.

For music, "We use local talent and quartets such as we can find."

The site of the service also is accessible by road and is near a popular spot called Conley Bottom.

"It's a good place for swimming and boating," Rodgers explained. "Folks have been congregating in that area for a long time. It's a natural place to go."

The playground-church site has acquired a nickname: Christian Point.

County Fair Attendance Up

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — County and independent fair attendance, if it continues at the present rate, will number more than half Ohio's population this year, state Agriculture Director John M. Stackhouse predicted Friday.

Attendance at 94 Ohio fairs last year, excluding the state fair, was 4.3 million, the agriculture department director said, and attendance is more than 10 per cent higher so far this year.

Stackhouse made his optimistic report today to a fellow who knows about fair attendance—Gov. James A. Rhodes. Rhodes has visited 12 fairs already and indicated he probably will see some more today and over the weekend.

A NEW ROAD

"Let's find a new road!" That's a game we play often when we take a family ride.

These little journeys of discovery have led us to some beautiful, serene sections of our community that we never would have seen if we'd stayed on the busy highway.

At times, life itself can seem like a crowded, noisy highway. The years rush by . . . we promise ourselves that some day we'll take the time to look around us and try to understand where we are and why . . . but worldly interests tend to fill every minute to the brim. We wonder why the pleasures that we work so hard to obtain fail to bring us happiness . . . and we sense that life has a deeper meaning, if we could find it.

The Church can guide you and your family to a new, wonderful road. Discover the warm fellowship, the renewed courage, the refreshing peace of mind that grow from membership in your neighborhood church.

Local Church

To Honor

Retired Pastor

REV. A. E. PUSEY

The local Church of the Nazarene will mark the retirement of one of its former ministers, the Rev. A. E. Pusey, during the morning service Sunday. Rev. Pusey served the local congregation as pastor from 1929 to 1936 and during his ministry the original church building on the corner of Pickaway and Walnut Streets was erected.

During his 35 years of pastoral ministry Rev. Pusey has served churches at Circleville, Lithopolis, New Lexington, Jackson and Tiffin. He concluded his work at Tiffin in July.

Rev. and Mrs. Pusey will reside at Route 1. They have three daughters, Mrs. Miriam Hobbie, Route 1, Mrs. Ruth Clendenen, Columbus, and Mrs. Martha Keiser, Athens; and a son, the Rev. Paul Pusey, Findlay.

The pastor, the Rev. John W. Dennis, invites those who were a part of Rev. Pusey's congregation to occupy a reserved section of the sanctuary for this special occasion.

Local Baha'i Group Lists Weekly Thought

The following is from Baha'i teachings: "In his letters to the peoples of all faiths, Baha'u'llah proclaims the fulfillment of the promises of each of their Holy Books. He addresses all men as the sheep of God, who have hitherto been divided into different flocks and sheltered in different folds.

"His message, he says, is the voice of God, the good Shepherd, who has come in the fullness of time to gather his scattered sheep into one flock, removing the barriers between them, that there may be one fold and one Shepherd.

"In this day of divisions and rivalries, Baha'u'llah declares that basic oneness of the religion of all mankind."

Cleric OKs Congregation In Boats, Play Clothes

MONTICELLO, Ky. (AP) — The Rev. Delmar Rodgers sometimes finds his congregation in play clothes.

But, it's only natural because many of the worshippers come by boat.

Once a month, the young minister of the Monticello Christian church conducts a 30-minute Sunday evening service at nearby Lake Cumberland.

The Rev. Mr. Rodgers describes his waterside service as an effort to unite pleasure and Christianity. His pulpit generally is the deck of a boat.

"A lot of people in our congregation have boats. Rather than let the boats become a wedge between them and their faithfulness to the church, we have the service at the lake," the minister said.

"Let's say its accommodating Those with boats feel they're putting them to good use."

The service is sponsored by the young people of the church. It began last summer and attendance has averaged about 100 persons.

Dress is informal though the minister explains "We ask for some measure of dignity. The people definitely are on vacation. Some stay on their boats during the services."

There are boats of all descriptions, usually including five or six houseboats.

Rodgers has been in this south-central Kentucky town of 3,000 population for about one and one-half years. He came from Rockford, Ill. Previous pastorates were in large cities, including Chicago.

His lakeside services are limited to 30 minutes of music and a brief sermon.

For music, "We use local talent and quartets such as we can find."

The site of the service also is accessible by road and is near a popular spot called Conley Bottom.

"It's a good place for swimming and boating," Rodgers explained. "Folks have been congregating in that area for a long time. It's a natural place to go."

The playground-church site has acquired a nickname: Christian Point.

State Alters Allowances For Traveling

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Finance Director Richard L. Krabach moved Friday to cut down on some state paper-shuffling.

From now on, he said, Ohio proposes to pay its employees a flat $14 a day for food and lodging while traveling, and nine cents a mile for use of their own cars.

At present, state employees are repaid on the basis of the receipts they produce for food and lodging. And they get nine cents a mile for the first 10,000, then six and a half cents.

Krabach contends that the average food - lodging payment comes to $14 a day anyway.

And employees who drive more than 10,000 to 12,000 miles a year probably ought to use state cars, he adds.

In the meantime, he says, thousands of hours a year go into the making out and checking of detailed travel expense accounts. Krabach says his office has to go over at least 800,000 pieces of paper annually and the new arrangement—if approved—will save much of this.

A public hearing will be conducted next month on the proposed changes.

Juvenile Gas Thief Uses Modern Tools

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — "Modernization," the Ohio Highway Patrol officer said with a sigh.

The patrol's Delaware post had picked up a juvenile for siphoning gasoline from cars parked at the Delaware County Fairgrounds. The youth was using a battery - operated pump.

Girl Scouts Give Tips On Dining Out

Planning a picnic? The best plan of all is to take along a Girl Scout and let her manage the outing. She'll carry it off with honors because good Scouts everywhere are up on the how-tos of eating out. It's all in their handbook.

Did you, for example, know that the best way to pack sandwiches is to stand them on edge?

It's a fact, and one that makes sense. Stand them on edge and the filling won't make the bread soggy. If anything drips, it'll drip down — not through the bread!

Scouts are onto all sorts of tricks.

A bandanna, for example, is a very handy thing to have on a picnic. It can be used as a colorful carry-all for the lunch itself. Later, it can serve as a placemat, an apron or even a pot holder.

No Scout worthy of a merit badge needs a fancy outdoor grill! She knows how to make a cook-out stove using an empty king-size No. 10 can. Here's how:

The open end of the can sits on the ground. Cut a door from the bottom that's three inches high. Bend back the tin inside the can. Punch two or three small holes high on the side of the can opposite the door.

Make a small fire of twigs and set your "stove" over it, using the top of the can to cook on.

It is a well-known fact that matches sometimes get wet, particularly if they're the only ones you have along. But this isn't a problem if you've waterproofed them, Girl Scout style.

To do this, dip the heads of wooden matches in colorless nail polish, pack them in a tin box and include a small piece of sandpaper to ignite them when needed.

Scouts even have some super menu suggestions.

Instead of loading themselves down with fresh fruit, they pack dried fruit. Why?

Because a pound of dried fruit is equivalent to 6 pounds of apples and weighs 5 pounds less!

Like most girls, they're fond of chocolate, but if planning to snack up on this treat while hiking, they choose the semi-sweet kind. It doesn't make you as thirsty as the sweet milk chocolate does.

A souvenir makes an outing memorable — but you don't have to purchase one at a shop! Girl Scouts prefer collecting their own!

Pretty pebbles and small stones are among their favorites. They glue them together to make paperweights or even imaginative animals.

When done, they're souvenirs that are special because they have that all-important personal touch.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

A Son's Thoughts

DEAR ABBY: I can't get that Father's Day column out of my mind. This is for the mother who sent you her 19-year-old son's letter in which he said, "If I turn out to be a father like my dad, I wish somebody would shoot me."

Only when your son has sons of his own will he appreciate what his father has done for him. I assume your son is not paying his own way through college. Few sons do.

I had the same type of father. He never played ball with me. He never cuddled me when I was young. Never talked with me, man-to-man. He never took me on trips, either. But he worked everyday. And he paid the bills. And he put food on the table and clothes on my back, and shoes on my feet. And he quietly did without himself.

I used to feel resentment, too. But now I have sons of my own, and realize that there are many ways of showing love. And my father loved me no less for his inability to show it. One day that boy will live to eat his words.

OLDER AND WISER

DEAR ABBY: The letter on Father's Day from the boy who was disappointed in his father bothered me. Considering the thousands of boys who have had to grow up without fathers, I think this young man is lucky to have had even a part-time father. At least he's made a home for his family and has paid the bills. If the boy fears his younger brother will suffer from the absence of a father's love and guidance, why doesn't he spend more time being the older brother? Older brothers are usually adored and looked up to by the younger ones.

I have four sons, from 9 to 16. Their father has been in the state mental hospital since the oldest boy was eight years old, so it is almost as though they had no father at all. His mind is gone and he will be there the rest of his life. Yet the boys keep busy, help each other, help me, and I have never once heard any of them complain about how tough it is to be without a father.

MOTHER OF FOUR

DEAR ABBY: I read the letter from the college son to his mother, criticizing his father. The boy sounded like an over-protected, spoiled, sniveling brat, just looking for points against probably a hardworking, long suffering, devoted, introverted father. Who sent this kid to college? My husband is a quiet man, and our three sons adore him in a quiet way. They feel no necessity to drool over one another. One son is a newspaper man the other two are engineers, and they all married wonderful girls. The boys turned out to be the kind fathers brag about, but my husband never bragged. My husband never took the boys hunting or fishing. In the summer he either was going to college (he is a school teacher) or working to supplement our income. He never wrote any of them a letter in his life. Yet they loved and respected each other and enjoyed a fine relationship. What we need today is more strong silent men who quietly rule their homes. Then no son will hope to be shot if he isn't taken fishing or to Disneyland. Honestly.

WICHITA WIFE

DEAR ABBY: Apropos the letter from the college boy who condemned his father for not being a "good" father:

I am willing to bet that if you were to ask one hundred successful, reasonably well-adjusted family men if their fathers ever played ball with them, took them on trips, or sat down and talked "man-to-man" with them, ninety-five would have to say no.

76 Trombone Firm Moving

CLEVELAND (AP)—The F. A. Reynolds Music Co., which made the 76 trombones and more than 100 cornets for the show "Music Man" about three years ago is leaving Cleveland after 30 years for Abilene, Tex.

The company, which at peak production employed about 90 making brass wind instruments, will be incorporated into Caldwell Music Co. at Abilene, the nation's largest band instrument repair firm.

Chicago Musical Instrument Co., which purchased Reynolds at public auction last June 13, disclosed Thursday that it has bought Caldwell.

Reynolds employees have been laid off, but a few of them will go to Abilene for jobs in the operation there, according to James Caldwell, who said the move will be completed in about two weeks.

A suspicion of sugar and nutmeg added to creamed spinach or celery gives these vegetables a lift.

Wife Preservers

Clean outdoor deck chairs the easy way. Leave canvas in place and scrub with a stiff brush and detergent or pine cleaner.

A pound of ground beef should measure about two cups. To make eight thin hamburgers use a one-quarter cup measure of the meat for each. These thin patties may be sandwiched together with various fillings to make stuffed burgers.

Girl Scouts Give Tips On Dining Out

Planning a picnic?

The best plan of all is to take along a Girl Scout and let her manage the outing. She'll carry it off with honors because good Scouts everywhere are up on the how-tos of eating out. It's all in their handbook.

Did you, for example, know that the best way to pack sandwiches is to stand them on edge?

It's a fact, and one that makes sense. Stand them on edge and the filling won't make the bread soggy. If anything drips, it'll drip down — not through the bread!

Scouts are onto all sorts of tricks.

A bandanna, for example, is a very handy thing to have on a picnic. It can be used as a colorful carry-all for the lunch itself. Later, it can serve as a placemat, an apron or even a pot holder.

No Scout worthy of a merit badge needs a fancy outdoor grill! She knows how to make a cook-out stove using an empty kingly-size No. 10 can. Here's how:

The open end of the can sits on the ground. Cut a door from the bottom that's three inches high. Bend back the tin inside the can. Punch two or three small holes high on the side of the can opposite the door.

Make a small fire of twigs and set your "stove" over it, using the top of the can to cook on.

It is a well-known fact that matches sometimes get wet, particularly if they're the only ones you have along. But this isn't a problem if you've waterproofed them, Girl Scout style.

To do this, dip the heads of wooden matches in colorless nail polish, pack them in a tin box and include a small piece of sandpaper to ignite them when needed.

Scouts even have some super menu suggestions.

Instead of loading themselves down with fresh fruit, they pack dried fruit. Why?

Because a pound of dried fruit is equivalent to 6 pounds of apples and weighs 5 pounds less!

Like most girls, they're fond of chocolate, but if planning to snack up on this treat while hiking, they choose the semi-sweet kind. It doesn't make you as thirsty as the sweet milk chocolate does.

A souvenir makes an outing memorable — but you don't have to purchase one at a shop! Girl Scouts prefer collecting their own!

Pretty pebbles and small stones are among their favorites. They glue them together to make paperweights or even imaginative animals.

When done, they're souvenirs that are special because they have that all-important personal touch.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

A Son's Thoughts

DEAR ABBY: I can't get that Father's Day column out of my mind. This is for the mother who sent you her 19-year-old son's letter in which he said, "If I turn out to be a father like my dad, I wish somebody would shoot me."

Only when your son has sons of his own will he appreciate what his father has done for him. I assume your son is not paying his own way through college. Few sons do.

I had the same type of father. He never played ball with me. He never cuddled me when I was young. Never talked with me, man-to-man. He never took me on trips, either. But he worked everyday. And he paid the bills. And he put food on the table and clothes on my back, and shoes on my feet. And he quietly did without himself.

I used to feel resentment, too. But now I have sons of my own, and realize that there are many ways of showing love. And my father loved me no less for his inability to show it. One day that boy will live to eat his words.

OLDER AND WISER

DEAR ABBY: The letter on Father's Day from the boy who was disappointed in his father bothered me. Considering the thousands of boys who have had to grow up without fathers, I think this young man is lucky to have had even a part-time father. At least he's made a home for his family and has paid the bills. If the boy fears his younger brother will suffer from the absence of a father's love and guidance, why doesn't he spend more time being the older brother? Older brothers are usually adored and looked up to by the younger ones.

I have four sons, from 9 to 16. Their father has been in the state mental hospital since the oldest boy was eight years old, so it is almost as though they had no father at all. His mind is gone and he will be there the rest of his life. Yet the boys keep busy, help each other, help me, and I have never once

School Orchestra Convention Slated

Harry Martin, superintendent of schools in Lima, will speak on the school music program in relation to school administration.

Preparing applesauce. Some good cooks say that covering the apples tightly during the cooking helps preserve good flavor.

heard any of them complain about how tough it is to be without a father.

MOTHER OF FOUR

DEAR ABBY: I read the letter from the college son to his mother, criticizing his father. The boy sounded like an over-protected, spoiled, sniveling brat, just looking for points against probably a hardworking, long suffering, devoted, introverted father. Who sent this kid to college? My husband is a quiet man, and our three sons adore him in a quiet way. They feel no necessity to drool over one another. One son is a newspaper man the other two are engineers, and they all married wonderful girls. The boys turned out to be the kind fathers brag about, but my husband never bragged. My husband never took the boys hunting or fishing. In the summer he either was going to college (he is a school teacher) or working to supplement our income. He never wrote any of them a letter in his life. Yet they loved and respected each other and enjoyed a fine relationship. What we need today is more strong silent men who quietly rule their homes. Then no son will hope to be shot if he isn't taken fishing or to Disneyland. Honestly,

WICHITA WIFE

DEAR ABBY: Apropos the letter from the college boy who condemned his father for not being a "good" father:

I am willing to bet that if you were to ask one hundred successful, reasonably well-adjusted family men if their fathers ever played ball with them, took them on trips, or sat down and talked "man-to-man" with them, ninety-five would have to say no.

76 Trombone Firm Moving

CLEVELAND (AP)—The F. A. Reynolds Music Co., which made the 76 trombones and more than 100 cornets for the show "Music Man" about three years ago is leaving Cleveland after 30 years for Abilene, Tex.

The company, which at peak production employed about 90 making brass wind instruments, will be incorporated into Caldwell Music Co. at Abilene, the nation's largest band instrument repair firm.

Chicago Musical Instrument Co., which purchased Reynolds at public auction last June 13, disclosed Thursday that it has bought Caldwell.

Reynolds employees have been laid off, but a few of them will go to Abilene for jobs in the operation there, according to James Caldwell, who said the move will be completed in about two weeks.

Second National Earns LL Crown

Second National Bank won the Little League Minors overall crown last night by downing IOOF in a second straight playoff game, 13-12.

The winners trailed 6-1 in the first inning, 9-1 in the second frame, 9-3 in the third, 12-8 in the fourth and 12-9 in the fifth. They won the game on a mighty rally in the final frame that produced four runs.

Hunter Certain, Rick Metcalf and Jim Mogan teamed up to five-hit the losing IOOF team.

Metcalf fanned two, walked four and didn't allow a hit. Mogan walked six, fanned two and gave up four hits. Certain threw three strikes past five batters, walked two and allowed one hit.

JOE REESER tagged a homerun, double and a single for the winners. John Payne added a homerun and two doubles, Jim Mogan belted two triples. Both Certain and Mike Williams tagged triples.

Wertie Teets and Mike Webb teamed up to pitch for IOOF. Teets walked four, fanned four and allowed three hits. Webb issued six free passes, threw three strikes past five and was tagged for eight hits.

John and Bob Courtright tagged extra base blows for the losers, with John belting a triple and Bob hitting a double.

Otto Unimpressed By Mighty Bears

CHICAGO (AP) — Otto Graham, head coach of the College All-Stars, wasn't overly impressed with the Chicago Bears even in his team's 28-17 defeat and saw his squad play a much better game than he had expected.

"The Bears didn't beat us," said Graham. "We beat ourselves. Our mistakes beat us. The last two touchdowns they scored proves that. We gave them the ball twice and they took it in. You can't do that against the National Football League champions."

Graham, who hadn't been enthused over the All-Star practice sessions said "honestly, I had no idea what this team would do. But they surprised me and played a lot better than I expected. And we could have won the ball game."

Palmer Sees Tam Test as Dogfight

CHICAGO (AP) — Defending champion Arnold Palmer thinks the $50,000-plus Western Golf Open, which enters the third round at par-wrecked Tam O'Shanter Saturday is going to be a dogfight all the way.

"Those who are scoring well will keep it up on this course," said Arnie. "I can't see any of the front-runners really blowing in the last two rounds."

A dozen players were only six strokes apart after 36 holes on the par 36-35 — 71 course. In all, 27 were under the halfway par of 142.

Chi Chi Rodriguez, who shared the opening round lead at 64 with Billy Casper, added a 69 for 133 and a one-stroke edge over Palmer. Arnie banged a 66 for 134. Casper slipped to 71 for 135.

When the Houston Colt 45s obtained Don Larsen from the San Francisco Giants the pitcher cost $20,000, the waiver price.

Met Castoff Helps Phils Defeat Mets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Frank Thomas is a slow-footed, 35-year-old Mets castoff with a future as rosy as his new red pinstripes.

The veteran of 11 seasons with National League also-rans finally may be ticketed for a World Series paycheck and the league-leading Philadelphia Phillies, who spirited Thomas — via a Friday afternoon waiver deal — from the lowly Mets, may have bought themselves some pennant insurance.

Thomas helped his new club to a 9-4 victory over his old mates Friday night — only hours after the Phils acquired his contract in exchange for three minor leaguers. He drove in two runs with a double and single, then started a double play from first base as the Phils padded their NL lead to 2½ games over runner-up San Francisco.

The big right-handed slugger played previously for Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Milwaukee and has hit 275 career home runs. But he has never been with a pennant winner and has been with a last place club in 12 of his 17 major and minor league seasons.

Cincinnati's Jim Maloney and Bill McCool struck out 15 and handcuffed the Giants 5-3, pulling the third place Reds within striking distance of the losers. St. Louis' Curt Simmons blanked Houston 4-0; The Los Angeles Dodgers whipped Milwaukee 5-1 and the Chicago Cubs swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh 7-3 and 4-3.

Baltimore regained the American League lead with a 2-0 victory over the New York Yankees, who dropped to second place one game behind the Orioles. The Chicago White Sox tipped Boston 2-0; Cleveland beat Minnesota twice, 10-4 and 8-2; Detroit topped Kansas City 5-2 and Washington edged the Los Angeles Angels 4-3.

5 Horseshoe Flingers Tied In Tourney

GREENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Five men, including two former champions, were tied for the lead as the World Horseshoe Pitching Championship closed out its second round today.

Tied at 11 victories out of 12 games were Harold Reno of Sabina, Ohio, Curt Day of Frankfort, Ind., Ted Allen of Boulder, Colo., Ray Martin of Philo, Ill., and Carl Steinfeldt of Rochester, N. Y.

Reno won the championship in 1962, and Allen has won it 10 times. Steinfeldt was the tournament's top qualifier. Friday night's action was highlighted by a near-perfect match pitched by Martin and Ralph Maddox of Poca, W. Va., which Maddox won, 52-48. Maddox threw 151 ringers out of 176 tosses for an 85.8 ringer percentage, and Martin had 149 ringers out of 176 tosses for an 84.7 percentage.

After Friday night's action, here is how the other Ohioans in the championship flight stood: Glenn Riffe, Dayton, six out of 12; Lee Bennett, Middletown, four out of eight, and Wilbur Kabel, New Madison, three out of 12.

Steubenville '9' Faces Bridgeport

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Unbeaten Steubenville was given the edge over Bridgeport today as the two teams met in the finals of the Ohio American Legion Junior Baseball Championship.

Bridgeport suffered its only loss in the tournament to the Steubenville nine, a 2-1 thriller Wednesday.

The two teams split a pair of 3-2 decisions during the regular season.

But Bridgeport, now 4-1, has to beat Steubenville twice today

LEAVE THE SAILING TO US—Bearded Thomas Williamson, 45 (left), and 67-year-old William Fisher (right) agree on two things—it's fun to travel by water and the longer it takes, the better the trip. Williamson is rowing his rowboat from Pascagoula, Miss., to the New York World's Fair at a brisk five feet per stroke and Fisher is steering his raft from Baden, Pa., to New Orleans at a brisk two miles an hour.

'Graham Cracker' Too Late

Pro Champion Bear '11' Trips All-Stars, 28-17

CHICAGO (AP) — The victorious Chicago Bears missed Willie Galimore and the scrappy collegians discovered the "Graham Cracker" too late in Friday night's 31st All-Star game.

The champion Bears of the National Football League, trailing 10-7 at halftime, rode to a 28-17 triumph mainly on the reliable passing arm of veteran quarterback Bill Wade.

But the big thrill for a Soldier Field crowd of 65,000 came in the final quarter as Coach Otto Graham used two quarterbacks simultaneously — Southern California's Pete Beathard and will-o'-the-wisp George Mira of Miami (Fla.).

With Beathard as main ball handler and Mira as a lonesome halfback, the Graham maneuver produced a lively finish just as the game seemed to bog down after the Bears muscled to a 28-10 lead.

Mira kept taking flat passes from Beathard and either scampered for yardage or flipped passes from his wide vantage point.

With 26 seconds of the game left, Mira rifled a five-yard touchdown pass to another brilliant All-Star performer, halfback Charley Taylor of Arizona State.

It took the Bears quite a while to build up steam in their attack which was outpounded on the ground by the All-Stars 187 yards to 94.

Ron Bull, who must carry the NFL load at the halfback spot he shared with the late Galimore, carried nine times for 35 yards, top Bear rushing effort. Galimore and end John Farrington were killed in an auto crash 14 days ago. Last night's game was preceded by a moment of silence in memory of the two.

On the other hand, the scampering Mira rambled 56 yards on four carries and two other All-Stars — Taylor and his Arizona State teammate Tony Lorch, also bettered Bull's yardage.

Taylor, who was a one-man gang himself, carried seven times for 36 yards and Lorch punched 38 yards on six tries.

Early in the second quarter, the fleet Taylor — headed for the Washington Redskins — streaked for a 29-yard gain on a Beathard pass that set up a 14-yard field goal by Ohio State's Dick Van Raaphorst for a 3-0 All-Star lead.

Later in the second quarter, Taylor recovered a Bear fumble on the Bear 18. Two plays later, he took a pitchout from Mira and hurled a 14-yard touchdown pass to Georgia Tech end Ted to win the championship. Steubenville only needs to win once to grab the glory.

Bridgeport moved to the finals with a 5-2 victory over Cincinnati Budde yesterday. Steubenville had a bye in Friday's play.

Davis for a 10-7 All-Star lead at halftime.

And it was Taylor scoring himself on a five-yard shot from Mira just before the game ended.

Mira, signed with the San Francisco 49ers, began entrenching himself as darling of the huge crowd late in the third quarter. He popped a dozen passes, completing six for 48 yards, to lead the All-Stars on a vain 75-yard march to the Bear four.

The eventual difference was pro savvy and the marksmanship of Wade, who completed 15 of 23 passes for 217 yards, including a 13-yard scoring shot to Mike Ditka in the second quarter and a 20-yard touchdown flip to Gary Barnes in the third quarter for a 21-10 Bear lead.

Wade also scored on a one-foot sneak to move the Bears ahead 14-10 in the third period after pumping pass-after-pass, including a 38-yarder to Johnny Morris, in an 80-yard payoff drive. Sub Rudy Bukich looped a 30-yard TD pass to Charley Bivins for the final Bear score.

The Bear triumph gave the pros a 20-9 victory edge with two ties in the All-Star series.

The Kansas City Athletics have had six managers since they entered the American League in 1955.

CHICAGO (AP) — Defending champion Arnold Palmer thinks the $50,000-plus Western Golf Open, which enters the third round at par-wrecked Tam O'Shanter Saturday is going to be a dogfight all the way.

"Those who are scoring well will keep it up on this course," said Arnie. "I can't see any of the front-runners really blowing in the last two rounds."

A dozen players were only six strokes apart after 36 holes on the par 36-35 — 71 course. In all, 27 were under the halfway par of 142.

Chi Chi Rodriguez, who shared the opening round lead at 64 with Billy Casper, added a 69 for 133 and a one-stroke edge over Palmer. Arnie banded a 66 for 134. Casper slipped to 71 for 135.

When the Houston Colt .45s obtained Don Larsen from the San Francisco Giants the pitcher cost $20,000, the waiver price.

Met Castoff Helps Phils Defeat Mets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Frank Thomas is a slow-footed, 35-year-old Mets castoff with a future as rosy as his new red pinstripes.

The veteran of 11 seasons with National League also-rans finally may be ticketed for a World Series paycheck and the league-leading Philadelphia Phillies, who spirited Thomas — via a Friday afternoon waiver deal — from the lowly Mets, may have bought themselves some pennant insurance.

Thomas helped his new club to a 9-4 victory over his old mates Friday night — only hours after the Phils acquired his contract in exchange for three minor leaguers. He drove in two runs with a double and single, then started a double play from first base as the Phils padded their NL lead to 2½ games over runner-up San Francisco.

The big right-handed slugger played previously for Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Milwaukee and has hit 275 career home runs. But he has never been with a pennant winner and has been with a last place club in 12 of his 17 major and minor league seasons.

Cincinnati's Jim Maloney and Bill McCool struck out 15 and handcuffed the Giants 5-3, pulling the third place Reds within striking distance of the losers. St. Louis' Curt Simmons blanked Houston 4-0; The Los Angeles Dodgers whipped Milwaukee 5-1 and the Chicago Cubs swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh 7-3 and 4-3.

Baltimore regained the American League lead with a 2-0 victory over the New York Yankees, who dropped to second place one game behind the Orioles. The Chicago White Sox tipped Boston 2-0; Cleveland beat Minnesota twice, 10-4 and 8-2; Detroit topped Kansas City 5-2 and Washington edged the Los Angeles Angels 4-3.

5 Horseshoe Flingers Tied In Tourney

GREENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Five men, including two former champions, were tied for the lead as the World Horseshoe Pitching Championship closed out its second round today.

Tied at 11 victories out of 12 games were Harold Reno of Sabina, Ohio, Curt Day of Frankfort, Ind., Ted Allen of Boulder, Colo., Ray Martin of Philo, Ill., and Carl Steinfeldt of Rochester, N. Y.

Reno won the championship in 1962, and Allen has won it 10 times. Steinfeldt was the tournament's top qualifier.

Friday night's action was highlighted by a near-perfect match pitched by Martin and Ralph Maddox of Poca, W. Va., which Maddox won, 52-48. Maddox threw 151 ringers out of 176 tosses for an 85.8 ringer percentage, and Martin had 149 ringers out of 176 tosses for an 84.7 percentage.

After Friday night's action, here is how the other Ohioans in the championship flight stood: Glenn Riffe, Dayton, six out of 12; Lee Bennett, Middletown, four out of eight, and Wilbur Kabel, New Madison, three out of 12.

Steubenville '9' Faces Bridgeport

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Unbeaten Steubenville was given the edge over Bridgeport today as the two teams met in the finals of the Ohio American Legion Junior Baseball Championship.

Bridgeport suffered its only loss in the tournament to the Steubenville nine, a 2-1 thriller Wednesday.

The two teams split a pair of 3-2 decisions during the regular season.

But Bridgeport, now 4-1, has to beat Steubenville twice today

LEAVE THE SAILING TO US—Bearded Thomas Williamson, 45 (left), and 67-year-old William Fisher (right) agree on two things—it's fun to travel by water and the longer it takes, the better the trip. Williamson is rowing his rowboat from Pascagoula, Miss., to the New York World's Fair at a brisk five feet per stroke and Fisher is steering his raft from Baden, Pa., to New Orleans at a brisk two miles an hour.

'Graham Cracker' Too Late

Pro Champion Bear '11' Trips All-Stars, 28-17

CHICAGO (AP) — The victorious Chicago Bears missed Willie Galimore and the scrappy collegians discovered the "Graham Cracker" too late in Friday night's 31st All-Star game.

The champion Bears of the National Football League, trailing 10-7 at halftime, rode to a 28-17 triumph mainly on the reliable passing arm of veteran quarterback Bill Wade.

But the big thrill for a Soldier Field crowd of 65,000 came in the final quarter as Coach Otto Graham used two quarterbacks simultaneously — Southern California's Pete Beathard and will-o'-the-wisp George Mira of Miami (Fla.).

With Beathard as main ball handler and Mira as a lonesome halfback, the Graham maneuver produced a lively finish just as the game seemed to bog down after the Bears muscled to a 28-10 lead.

Mira kept taking flat passes from Beathard and either scrambled for yardage or flipped passes from his wide vantage point.

With 26 seconds of the game left, Mira rifled a five-yard touchdown pass to another brilliant All-Star performer, halfback Charley Taylor of Arizona State.

It took the Bears quite a while to build up steam in their attack which was outpounded on the ground by the All-Stars 187 yards to 94.

Ron Bull, who must carry the NFL load at the halfback spot he shared with the late Galimore, carried nine times for 35 yards, top Bear rushing effort. Galimore and end John Farrington were killed in an auto crash 14 days ago. Last night's game was preceded by a moment of silence in memory of the two.

On the other hand, the scampering Mira ramblled 56 yards on four carries and two other All-Stars — Taylor and his Arizona State teammate Tony Lorch, also bettered Bull's yardage.

Taylor, who was a one-man gang himself, carried seven times for 36 yards and Lorch punched 38 yards on six tries.

Early in the second quarter, the fleet Taylor — headed for the Washington Redskins — streaked for a 29-yard gain on a Beathard pass that set up a 14-yard field goal by Ohio State's Dick Van Raaphorst for a 3-0 All-Star lead.

Later in the second quarter, Taylor recovered a Bear fumble on the Bear 18. Two plays later, he took a pitchout from Mira and hurled a 14-yard touchdown pass to Georgia Tech end Ted to win the championship. Steubenville only needs to win once to grab the glory.

Bridgeport moved to the finals with a 5-2 victory over Cincinnati Budde yesterday. Steubenville had a bye in Friday's play.

Davis for a 10-7 All-Star lead at halftime.

And it was Taylor scoring himself on a five-yard shot from Mira just before the game ended.

Mira, signed with the San Francisco 49ers, began enhancing himself as darling of the huge crowd late in the third quarter. He popped a dozen passes, completing six for 48 yards, to lead the All-Stars on a vain 75-yard march to the Bear four.

The eventual difference was pro savvy and the marksmanship of Wade, who completed 15 of 23 passes for 217 yards, including a 13-yard scoring shot to Mike Ditka in the second quarter and a 20-yard touchdown flip to Gary Barnes in the third quarter for a 21-10 Bear lead.

Wade also scored on a one-foot sneak to move the Bears ahead 14-10 in the third period after pumping pass-after-pass, including a 38-yarder to Johnny Morris, in an 80-yard payoff drive. Sub Rudy Bukich looped a 30-yard TD pass to Charley Bivins for the final Bear score.

The Bear triumph gave the pros a 20-9 victory edge with two ties in the All-Star series.

The Kansas City Athletics have had six managers since they entered the American League in 1955.

The freighter, St. George, radioed this message to the British-owned copper mines after the incident, a spokesman said: "Safe at 1930 (1:30 p.m.) after being machine-gunned. Crew safe."

Greek military sources in Athens said the crisis looks worse than at any time since Greek and Turkish Cypriots first tangled last December over an attempt by the government of President Makarios to end the Turkish minority's legislative veto.

Reformatory Escapees Are Nabbed

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP)—Friday was a day of excitement around the federal reformatory here when three inmates, all serving time for auto theft, attempted to escape.

All were captured within a few minutes, but not before one made a desperate attempt to hijack a state car carrying three highway engineers.

First, Jau W. Bouldin, 24, of Knoxville, Tenn., walked away from a dairy detail but was recaptured a short time later near the reformatory by guards.

Not long afterward, two other inmates, Elmer G. Everhart, 21, of Springfield, Ohio, and David E. Kirkland, 20, of Alcoa, Tenn., managed to scale a fence and flee while guards fired at them from nearby guard towers.

Everhart was taken into custody within five minutes near the reformatory grounds.

It was Kirkland who made the desperate attempt. He stood in the middle of Ohio 104 and flagged down the state car carrying the engineers, Gerald McKeever, George Young and James Krumm, all of Chillicothe.

Authorities said Kirkland, his hands bloody from his scaling of the fence, grabbed McKeever by the throat.

But before McKeever's two companions could go into action, Glen Menter, the reformatory's farm manager, arrived on the scene and subdued Kirkland.

'Logan Elm Dead,' Says Dispatch; 'Poppycock!' Snort Historians

By GUNNER MUSSELMAN
CIRCLEVILLE, Ohio (AP)—"Logan Elm is dead."

So a news dispatch reported this week.

"Poppycock!" snorted Pickaway County history buffs in reply.

True, the famous old tree under which the Mingo Indian chief, Logan, was said to have given his famous speech pleading for peace, no longer displays a green leaf. And, like a broken, gnarled old man, it is stooped and silent.

But, like the old man, Logan Elm has left progeny and a message which, in a sense, will cause it to live forever.

McEwing E. Noggle, historian for Pickaway County, admits to being saddened by the passing of the Great Elm, considered to have been one of the largest and oldest in the United States.

"Logan Elm Park will never be the same again," Noggle mused as he referred to the small state tract south of here maintained by the Ohio Historical Society.

It was there on Ohio History Day each autumn that Noggle for many years directed a ceremony honoring the Mingo chief.

Soon, only a stump will remain. Charles Pratt, superintendent of state memorials for the historical society, has said the rotten limbs of the great tree will be carted away and the butt capped a few feet off ground level.

But Noggle maintains the great tree will continue to "live"—in thousands of smaller elms which sprang from the parent tree's own seed.

The historian said a state nursery near Wooster has propagated many trees from seed taken from the Logan Elm. One of them reached considerable size in the Ohio statehouse lawn before the area was cleared for construction of an underground parking garage.

Another flourishes today near the U. S. Capitol in Washington.

Patrolmen Check Minor Accidents

Two fender-bender type traffic accidents were investigated yesterday by city police. No injuries resulted.

One of them was a minor mishap at 2:45 p. m. at an alley along the American Hotel on N. Court St. The other was 4:30 p. m. on S. Washington St.

Officers said damage was slight in both cases.

Wallace To Register Realtors for Meet

Registration chairmen of local boards have been announced for the 55th annual convention of the Ohio Assn. of Real Estate Boards Sept. 27-30, in Cincinnati.

Ed Wallace, 127½ E. Main St., of the Pickaway County Board will be the registration chairmen for local realtors and associates who will attend.

More than 1,200 are expected to attend sessions at The Netherlands Hotel.

And thousands can be found in a New Orleans city preserve. But even with this natural shrine gone, there still will remain an enduring monument to the man whose name the great tree bore: The eloquent speech of the Mingo Indian chief, Logan.

That speech, which Thomas Jefferson said invited comparison with anything from Cicero or Demosthenes, still is recited by school children and has been translated into several languages.

Students of Mingo Lore contend Chief Logan's oratorical masterpiece was more than a speech—it was the passionate, immortal cry straight as an arrow from the heart of a noble savage.

Torn with anguish, Logan cried: "I appeal to any white man to say, if he ever entered Logan's cabin hungry and he gave him not meat; if ever he came cold and naked and he clothed him not."

During the course of the last, long and bloody war, Logan remained idle in his cabin, an advocate for peace. Such was my love for the whites that my countrymen pointed as they passed and said, 'Logan is the friend of the white man." "I had even thought to live with you but for the injuries of one man. Last spring Captain Cresap, in cold blood and unprovoked, murdered all the relatives of Logan, not sparing even his women and children.

"There runs not a drop of my blood in the veins of any living creature. This called on me for revenge. I have sought it. I have killed many. I have fully glutted my vengeance.

"For my country, I rejoice at the beams of peace. Yet do not harbor the thought that mine is the joy of fear. Logan never felt fear. He will not turn on his heel to save his life.

"Who is there to mourn for Logan? Not one."

The speech was recorded by a British army colonel, John Gibson, an aide to Lord Dunmore, Governor of Virginia. And Gibson had more than a sympathetic ear to Logan's anguished appeal — his wife was Logan's only sister and a victim of the massacre attributed by the Mingo chief to Cresap.

It had been Gibson's assignment to seek out Logan to join other Indian chiefs in a final peace treaty with the whites. Following a decisive battle at Point Pleasant on the Ohio River, the Indians — with the exception of Logan — were ready to halt hostilities.

The Indians had been summoned together on the Pickaway Plains, south of Circleville, by the Shawnee chieftain, Cornstalk. They included the Delaware, Miamis, Ottawas, Wyandottes, Cayugas. Their great warriors included Chiefs Red Hawk, Black Hoof, Blue Jacket, Red Eagle, Cheeshau, Chiywee, Scappathus and Cornstalk's son, Elenipsico.

While they were reluctant to forgive and forget the whipping they took at Point Pleasant, they finally agreed with Cornstalk that peace should be made with the whites.

But Lord Dunmore had great respect for the missing chieftain, Logan, and was convinced no treaty would be of value without the Mingo's signature.

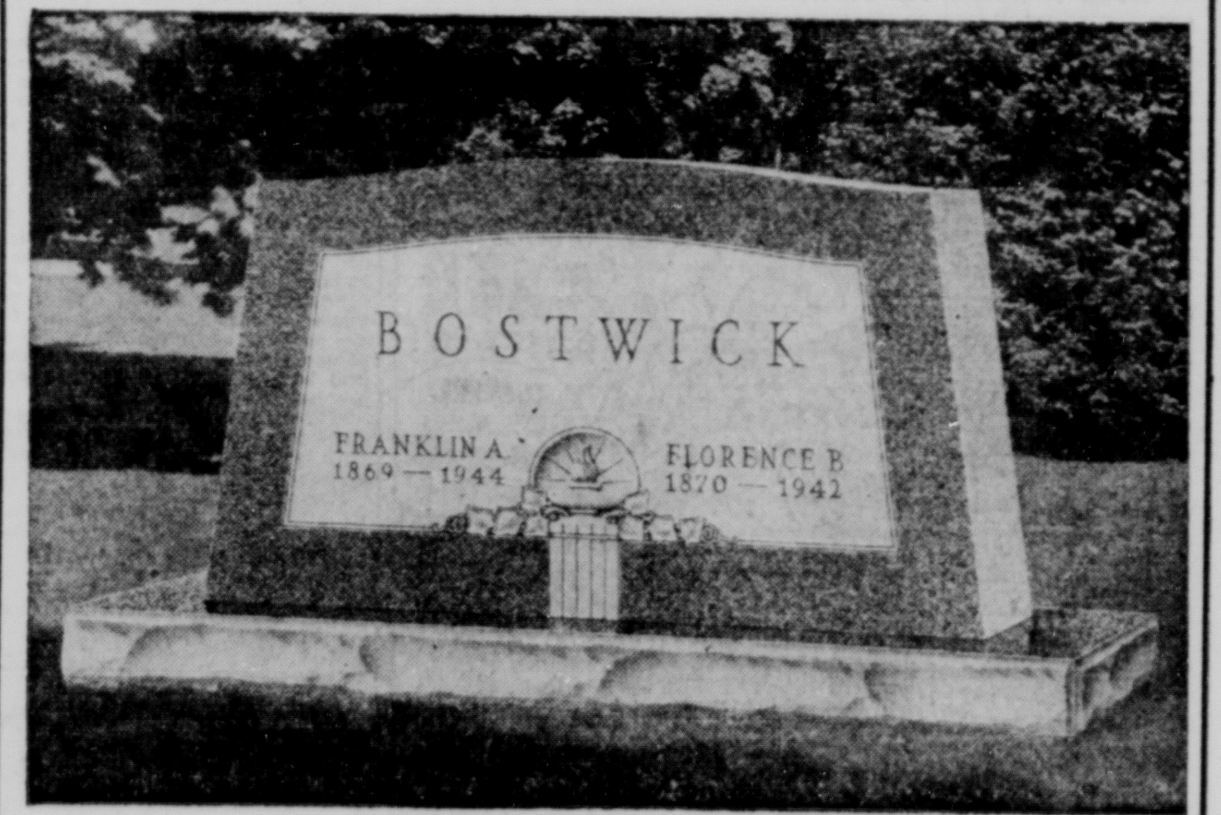

For that reason, Gibson was dispatched to confer with Logan. And their meeting nearly 190 years ago — on Oct. 10, 1774, was under a huge elm tree on the banks of Scippo Creek in the heart of the Pickaway Plains. It was this tree that has finally lost its battle with time.

But Logan Elm dead? "Poppycock!"

'Logan Elm Dead,' Says Dispatch; 'Poppcock!' Snort Historians

By GUNNER MUSSELMAN
CIRCLEVILLE, Ohio (AP)—"Logan Elm is dead."

So a news dispatch reported this week. "Poppcock!" snorted Pickaway County history buffs in reply.

True, the famous old tree under which the Mingo Indian chief, Logan, was said to have given his famous speech pleading for peace, no longer displays a green leaf. And, like a broken, gnarled old man, it is stooped and silent.
